The Rock of the Virgin is one of several dangerous isolated rocks off the coast of Biarritz, on one and another of which many gallant ships have met their doom. On this particular rock is erected a statue of the Virgin Mary, hence its title "Rocher de la Vierge." A light bridge connects the rock with the shore, thus enabling visitors to enjoy the magnificent view of the town and coast therefrom, to which the spray rising to magnificent heights off the submerged rocks in the foreground makes an admirable setting.
